Garden of the Gods Trading Post

Filled with the Wonders of Nature

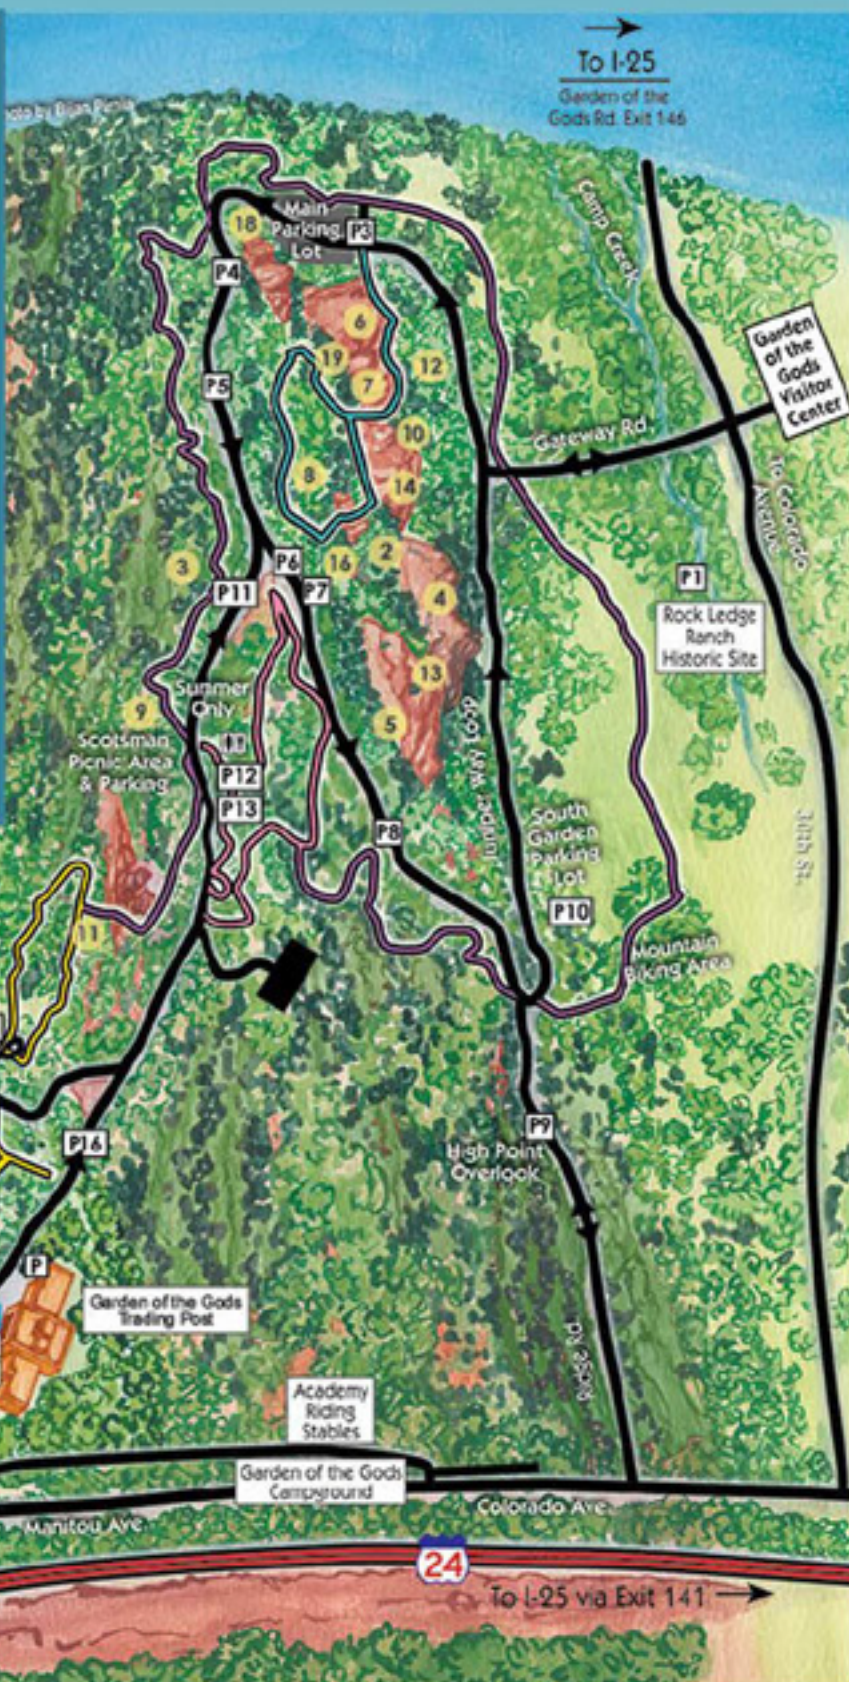

The Garden of the Gods was dedicated in 1909 and is a free city park. An abundance of plant and animal life can be found throughout its 1,350 acres, as well as the magnificent red sandstone rock formations. Many of these are over 300 million years old and were sculpted through time by erosion. In 1879, Charles Perkins, president of the Chicago Burlington Quincy Railroad, purchased much of the land now known as the Garden of the Gods. After his death, at his request, his family gave the land to the City of Colorado Springs to be used as a park. The stipulations included that it be known as Garden of the Gods and it would remain free to all visitors.

Colorado's Oldest & Largest -Welcoming visitors for over 100 years

The historic Garden of the Gods Trading Post is located at the southwest edge of the Garden of the Gods and is a stone's throw from the famous Balanced Rock. Browse through an array of gifts, souvenirs, and art. Enjoy lunch at the Balanced Rock Cafe. Try a world famous buffalo burger, grilled chicken club sandwich, or one of their delicious handmade wraps. The Trading Post is sure to make this trip one you'll never forget.

Hiking Trails

- Siamese Twins / Balanced Rock Trail
